

DINI SPHERIS

CONSULTING PROJECTS MANAGER POSITION DESCRIPTION

Office Location: Houston, TX

Work Setting: Hybrid work environment with opportunities to work in the office, from home, and at client locations

About Dini Spheris

Dini Spheris is a leading national nonprofit consulting firm based in Houston, Texas, specializing in philanthropic campaigns, strategic planning, fundraising programs and leadership development. With more than 50 years of experience, we partner with clients to advance their missions and achieve transformational results.

Position Overview

The Consulting Projects Manager (CPM) is a key member of a Dini Spheris consulting team, serving as the administrative and logistical hub across multiple concurrent client engagements. Client teams typically include a Principal and one or more Consultants, supported by one CPM.

The CPM supports client project management and internal initiatives, contributing to all aspects of client work—from preparing materials and coordinating meetings to conducting research and tracking next steps. This role includes regular participation in client meetings, requiring the ability to engage in real-time discussions and support follow-up. The CPM should also be comfortable presenting to clients and small groups in both client and educational settings.

A successful CPM manages multiple projects across clients, meets deadlines proactively and delivers high-quality service in a collaborative environment. The role requires strong self-management, including balancing desk-based work with frequent client interaction and adapting priorities as needs evolve. CPMs are supervised by a Principal and receive direction and mentorship from Consultants.
